Dear Miss Mason,

I do not think I have any useful suggestion to make upon the pamphlet. I am not sure that we could get the whole of the time for the humanities, but you have anticipated that difficulty. I think from 14 to 16 we can perhaps get 4½ hours out of the 7, 2½ going to Manual Instruction or Domestic Subjects, and Physical Exercises. I quite agree there are the evening hours, but I have no hope whatever that any save the very chosen will give those voluntarily at present to anything that bears the name or appearance of education.

When your pamphlet comes I will certainly send it out to likely people - even to the Master of Balliol if you won't send it to him yourself.

My influence outside my own county I am sure is nothing. I do not know what Mrs. Cullis had in her mind at all - something, no doubt, for the City of Gloucester with which I have nothing to do, and where I always must be very careful to avoid any appearance of meddling.

When you print the notes from our Schools I shall be very glad to write a covering letter, and when the notes come back to me I will prepare a short note of my own in the case of those schools that seem to require it.

There are still a few that have not come in yet.

Yours sincerely

Secretary.

Dear Mr. Howards

You have done the cause for which we are labouring another inestimable service.

The latest recognition of the Rd of Ed. is a great gain - the appointment of Miss Wix on long tenure is rather like that of the mother of Moses to be his nurse! It is a joy to us all.

It seems to me quite well that the appointment should be "confidential": he should no longer have the delightfully spontaneous movement among teachers if they believed that it would need the highway to official approval. But the F.M.S. are usually sympathetic & helpful & their friendliness goes his way.

As have led to no discretion in propaganda work all along - publishing only what we were assured to

Scale Hole, Ambleside.

2

might-publish - on this the discretion of Miss Perris & Miss Kirk has been very admirable.

The initial mail; the second visit - the report - are exactly the steps that we have found useful, but - I understood that in the event of this appointment, the Report - would be for the Board only. On more points, steps secondary schools are included.

I am more hopeful than you about the probable "Teachers' Guild" recruits. It seems to me that teachers are very keen to get more reality into their work - Have you noticed on of the closing paragraphs of Mr. Reynold's heart-searching book which just describes our aims & our progress.

It - pleases me much that Mr. Richards should do this for us. He had the pleasure of little time from him (Mr. Richards) a year or two since, when he told me that all the Board was sympathetic "exceptingly", the exception did not make us uneasy.

Yours truly & gratefully

Dear Mr. Household,

I wrote so hurriedly this morning that I omitted to tell you that there are, so far as I know, 110 Elementary Schools working you the list if you wish.

Also I ought to have said that Miss

Dear Mr. Houschold,

Thank you so much for your letter.

I did not mean to suggest that I should be a whole-time nor a recognised servant of the Board of Education, only that it will be quite impossible for me to accept any salary from the P.N.E.U. Committee after November. Nor would they offer it.

There need be no lack of other employment

Dear Miss Parish,

Thank you for your letter of the 20th. I think they give me all I need for the moment. Sir Edmund Phelps unfortunately will be away on Friday and therefore I cannot see him, but I shall see Mr. Richards the Chief Inspector. I have to be in London again on the 12th April, and I will try to see Mr. E. Phelps then if necessary.

I had the enclosed enquiry from Cambridgeshire this morning and I have replied advising Mr. Green to send 20 teachers over here after Easter, and to ask you to go down if you can and to send them propaganda.

I hear from Miss Mason this morning that you have had more than 100 letters of enquiry. Of course it is utterly impossible for the F. E. A. J. to deal with such numbers. I hope the Board will be sufficiently interested to regard the lessons that are being taught as of such national importance as to justify the appointment of an expert. I will do my best.

Yours sincerely,

Secretary.

27th March, 1930.

Dear Miss Mason,

I found to my sorrow on Friday that relations were strained with Mrs. Franklin.

Apparently she thinks that she and Miss Chalmersdaley can do the work now done by Miss Parish and Miss Wix. If that is so I am bound to say at once that they could not. Miss Parish and Miss Wix have years of teaching service behind them. They know the elementary school and the elementary teacher and win the confidence of the latter at once. Miss C. is at present much too young and inexperienced. No doubt she is able, and will learn if she works for some years under Miss Wix, but it is quite unthinkable that she should take Miss Wix's place in the schools and at public meetings. To lose Miss Wix at this moment when schools are pouring in would be an irreparable disaster that would wreck the cause.

The F.E.C. were much to Mrs. Franklin but she is not a teacher and does not know the teachers or the schools and she must not attempt to interfere with either. Her work is Committee work. Neither in school nor office could she do what Miss Parish and Miss Wix do.

Quite frankly if Miss Wix goes and Miss C. and Mrs. Franklin try to do the work I withdraw. They shall not come to our schools, nor will I let anybody think that I regard their advice to teachers as worth having. I advise everybody to get Miss Parish and Miss Wix to come down because they are so splendid. The work that has been done in the elementary schools is their work. I know what the teachers think of it and them. We owe everything to them.

You will forgive me for writing so bluntly. I cannot sit still and see the movement wrecked at the moment of its greatest promise by the transfer of control to wrong hands.

I hope you will have some way of letting Mrs. Franklin know that what she proposes to do is wildly 27-3-20.

27th March, 1920.

1042th.

Dear Miss Mason,

I saw Mr. Richards on Friday and I will tell you briefly what passed. He did not know what I was going to ask, and therefore could not make any promises, but he was sympathetic and thought he would see his way to help under certain conditions.

He could not at the moment recommend the appointment of an ex-student as an Inspector but he has a small sum at his disposal - only £500 in all - for the purpose of employing occasional inspectors and he might, if Sir A. Selby-Wing and Mr. Fisher approve, be able to allocate perhaps £100 during the coming financial year to paying for the occasional services of an ex-student whose duties would be (1) to visit schools that wish to adopt the method, instruct the teachers in your principles, as Miss Parich and Miss Wix do now, and visit again at the end of a few months, as they do, to see how things are going. In those visits she would be doing your work as you have taught her to do it. (2) To report in writing to the Board, and keep them informed, so that they may be in a position to estimate the value of the work that is being done.

When she would be entirely the Board's officer, and all reports would be confidential papers which it would not be permissible to use for purposes of propaganda or to refer to in any way.

In the schools she would not appear as the Board's officer because it is not desirable at present to represent the Board as committed, and it is most desirable that teachers should not think that favour and notice are to be won by doing what would seem to them to be the last new thing, of which they have had so many. That does not make for sincerity of purpose and would lead at once to the selection of unsuitable people.

Of course I am conscious that a proportion - probably no small proportion - of the "Teacher's World" recruits will be the wrong people and that dishonest working out will be necessary. But as mainly what just now is to set the country with good object lessons.

In public no allusion whatever would be permissible to the fact that the Board were employing an ex-student as an occasional inspector. Our Board will judge what can be done.

24 April 2008

Mr. Richards will see Miss Parish and talk over the suggestion with her.

The success so far has been entirely due to the wisdom and tact and teaching skill of Miss Parish and Miss Wix. They both win the confidence of the teachers at once. They know just how to handle people, how to listen, how to wait and when and how to assert and lead. For that reason as Miss Parish is no longer available I venture to suggest that Miss Wix is marked out as the right person and really the only possible person for the post, which she would fill just as one would wish it filled.

I am sending Mr. Richards a copy of this letter so that he may know exactly what I have said and be able to correct me if I have misrepresented him at any point.

Dear Mr. Householder,

I received books & papers this morning. I hope they assisted you in a little way to press your claims for official help in the encouragement of a system of education which we know is past its experimental stage; & it must have been gratifying to find Mr. Reibord so sympathetically disposed.

I am very grateful to you for the personal help which you gave to my application.

You do surprise me about Mr. Stobart. But it is a pleasant surprise. I told you that Mr. Murray was quite frank with me. Openly said he was in the non-committal stage, but would come by himself for another day. Mr. Leicester told me afterwards that he was coming too. Well, I'm going to bring Mr. Murray

The handwork champions need not be alarmed. The collateral methods do not clash in any way with the claim of handwork for its reasonable place in education.

If ever the small share of which handwork seems to receive in a P.H.E.D. school? is brought up against it, you can point out that the cost of materials during the war has had the same effect on schools which are frankly

I am aware that we shall have to meet such a challenge.
But I fear before next term is over I can invite you to see a practical refutation of the charge. Please let me remind you in this connection that you told me last week to

Dear Miss Mason,

I found to my sorrow on Friday that relations are strained with Mrs. Franklin. That Miss Parish was going to Ambleside I knew before. That was unfortunate but inevitable, but I took it for granted that we should still have Miss Fix, and I have seen enough of her work in School and Office to know that we should be safe in her hands. To my utter dismay I find that she is to go too, and that both she and Miss Parish feel that they are being badly used.

The credit of the great success in the elementary schools is entirely theirs. They know how to deal with the teachers and can show them what to do without irritating them. I know what our teachers think of them. I know that I can advise anyone in England to ask either of them to visit their schools and visit their schools. They have years of teaching experience behind them, and that wise tact that knows how to deal with people according to their temperaments, and to get the best out of them. To lose both now would be an irreparable disaster.

If I am right in thinking that Mrs. Franklin and Miss Cholmondeley are to do their work, I must say quite plainly that I must withdraw. I know that I am safe when I advise visits from Miss Parish and Miss Fix. I could not possibly advise teachers or Committees to invite Mrs. Franklin or Miss Cholmondeley. Mrs. Franklin is not a teacher. She is an amateur; and if there is one person whom the professional teachers distrust and dislike above all others, it is the amateur who would teach them their business. Miss Cholmondeley no doubt has ability and character, but she has to gain experience. She is very young and she does not know the elementary school. She must learn under Miss Fix - if Miss Fix can be persuaded to stay, which I have some reason to doubt.

You will forgive me for writing so bluntly. I cannot sit still and see the movement wrecked at the moment of its greatest promise by the transfer of control to wrong hands. I hope that you will be able to let Mrs. Franklin know what I feel and how deeply I feel it, so deeply that I must withdraw from the Union unless the disastrous mistake is remedied as soon as may be.

Yours truly,

I have seen Mr. Richards & his scheme seems to me to be full of possibilities; nothing is on Thursday.

The idea is that Miss Lewis should be engaged from Oct. 1st for occasional inspecting with the one or two half days to the P. N. E. U. if necessary, the Christmas. The salary is to be arranged you the enclosed letter to enjoy; we do not want it back. I am sending you too a little list of Gloucestershire schools which have written lately for particulars.

Have you heard from Mr Richards?
wonder? Sir Selby Bignall thinks it would be "construed as favouring a particular propaganda" to appoint a student as occasional Inspector. Mr Richards does not seem to have given up all hope; thinks he may be able to devise some other means, but it is sad & Miss Mason will be very much disappointed. Miss Parish is at Scale How now till Saturday when we meet at Whitby. Have you heard that Miss Cholmondeley is not coming after all? (I do hope I am not giving away secrets!)

Yours sincerely

America is enquiring how about the P.E.T.V. and our Gloucestershire schools. Don't let them get ahead of us.

I hope you sent in help. Is there any way of persuading Hilby-Snow to be a little bit particular?

Yours sincerely,

Secretary.

Dear Richard,

Many thanks for your letter of the 3rd. I hope very much that you may be able to find some way round. All I have done has been to send my Chairman the letter that I wrote to you on the 1st, and to give him a statement of the case. It is the most effective thing that I could do and it avoids all public controversy. I hope it will not cause any internal difficulties.

I know you must for the present think that I am making too great a claim for Miss Mason's methods. We can't pretend to show you all that they will do till we have children of children following them, who have been taught proper civics since they were seven. We have only four schools in this County that have been working under her for so much as three years.

And of course you could not say that you would ever require the establishment of F.E.O. methods as a fulfilment of Section 2 of the Act. That is just what I suggest a limited experiment should be allowed to test. It happens to be futile at the moment to talk of building for Section 2. Contractors won't tender even for big secondary schools in rural centres of population; still less would they look at the village Central school. And if one could build, there are no teachers and if there were teachers there are no houses for them. We are having difficulties with big elementary schools at the moment, because a teacher room, the new house is shipped up, and there is no roof for his successor. In the case of a big school it happens to be not even advertising because we know it is hopeless. So shall wait till the district housing scheme provides us with a house. The same difficulty is looking ahead in other places. We - and you - can afford therefore to suspend judgment awhile. In a little time other authorities may have had experience which confirms or overthrows our views with regard to Section 2 as it stands. Then a Colliery district or a big agricultural area may have its appointed day, and our heads to inform attendance at the Day Continuation school in the police courts, you will be able to convince us of what we don't believe at present. On the other hand in a little time we may be able to show you in our country schools which were built at the moment to give you to believe to be possible.

Yours sincerely

I think Miss Wice has not quite understood the position.

Bepp is in sympathy with the principles underlying the PNEU movement - he is also in sympathy with the appointment of occasional visitors.

But he thinks the occasional 24p38cmc 308

inspector might not be an officer after system she is to inspect.

I of course do not quite agree but Biggs has a responsibility greater than mine & I think there is a lot to be said for his point of view.
I feel it is rather hard lines throwing this decision onto Biggs & Charles & I am really to blame for not consulting him sooner.

However we will find a long road soon I hope.

I feel also you are making too great a claim for the system - I hope you doubtless will not agree - and I really don't think we could consider the establishment of PNEU methods as a fulfilment of Part 2 of the Act!

However this will have to be argued out in another place.

However we must all do our best to bring the old faults back to the schools & the teachers & I have still hope of winning the help of Miss Wine later on.

Please treat this letter as confidential & don't let it go out that Bipp has stamped in his new expression - it really is not so - since he is much more sympathetic than the majority of my colleagues. ever wrong, and that to leave Miss Perish and Miss Win at the same time and give us Miss C. in their place is just to undo all that has been done. I did not send Miss Perish a copy of my letter to you because she would have had to show it to Mrs. Franklin and preferred officially to know nothing. She ought, however, to see it before she goes to Mr. Richards, so perhaps you can send her a copy in a manner that will exonerate her from that official duty. I enclosed a copy for you to send if you so decide.

Secretary.
